Dear Customers:

Green Toys is 100% committed to providing safe, well-designed toys for children and the environment. All of our toys meet or exceed US toy safety standards outlined by the US Consumer Safety Commission. Below you will find more detail about our manufacturing philosophy, toy safety, and commitment to the environment.

Green Toys Inc. Manufacturing Philosophy:

All Green Toys products are 100% made in the USA. To be more specific, they are produced in California, a state known for strict toy safety and environmental laws. It's cool to buy USA, but also think about this: transportation is one of the biggest contributors to greenhouse gasses. We all know driving less is good for mother nature, but did you ever think about how many miles a toy logs before it ends up in your local store?

Our toys are truly local creations. Every step in the process, from milk container recycling to toy production to final assembly, occurs in California. Our raw materials and toys aren't shipped from overseas, which saves a lot of energy and reduces greenhouse gasses. It also guarantees your toys won't get seasick before they get to your home! In addition, by manufacturing locally, we are able to follow the manufacturing process from start to finish. We monitor and insure that any business we work with adheres to our high standards of quality and safety.

Commitment to Safety:

Green Toys products are tested by nationally recognized, independent, third-party laboratories (located, yes, in the USA.) Green Toys brand toys do not contain Phthalates or BPA. They are also designed without any external coatings, eliminating the fear of lead paint.

Our products pass a plethora of tests, including:

- * Consumer Products Safety Standard Specification, ASTM F963
- * California Prop. 65 restrictions on lead & cadmium
- * FDA regulations for food contact
- * California regulations prohibiting phthalates in toys
- * Voluntary testing for no BPA (Bisphenol-A)

Environmental Focus:

Green Toys Inc. was created to provide consumers with an environmentally friendly and safe alternative to traditional plastic toys while making an effort to improve and preserve the world around us. Green Toys' post-consumer, recycled products promote recycling, save energy and help reduce greenhouse gas emissions, and increase the overall health and happiness of the planet.

Green Toys environmental mission even extends to our packaging. We strive to minimize packaging, and all of our boxes use as little material as possible. All Green Toys products are packaged in recycled corrugated boxes with no plastics, cellophane or twist-ties, and are 100% recyclable.

Should you have any questions about Green Toys Inc. or our business practices, please feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,

The Folks at Green Toys
