Statement of Compliance with CPSIA - January 28, 2009

ALL OUR PRODUCTS PASS, AND WILL CONTINUE TO PASS, THE AUGUST 2008 CHILD PRODUCT SAFETY IMPROVEMENT ACT. ALL LLTC PRODUCTS IN OUR WAREHOUSE AND ON YOUR SHELVES ARE SAFE.

All our products have passed the required physical, mechanical and flammability tests. Test certificates are at our office and can be made available to you.

All our products have passed the required lead paint tests and are currently compliant with the even more stringent requirements for August 2009. Test certificates are at our office and can be made available to you.

All our products are exempt from the phthalate test as we do not add phthalates to any of our products.

All our products have passed the required lead substrate test not only for the current 600ppm but also the even lower level of 100ppm effective in August 2011. Test results are at our office and can be made available to you. Based on the testing and frequency requirements from the CPSIA, these test results also ensure the product on your shelves meets the requirements.

We have found the greatest confusion surrounding the CPSIA for retailers is the certificate of compliance (COC), also known as a general conformity certificate (GCC). The GCC was introduced to track the adherence to testing requirements by the supplier/manufacturer/importer and applies to product manufactured or imported after November 12, 2008. For products manufactured before this date, the CPSC has clearly stated that a statement of compliance from the supplier will be appropriate.

Therefore, we are providing the above statement of compliance for all our products manufactured before November 12, 2008. We will have a GCC for products manufactured for us after November 12, 2008 and we will post these on our website (www.littletc.com).
